

Jews and Islamic Law in Early 20th-Century Yemen (Indiana Series in Sephardi and Mizrahi Studies)

In early 20th-century Yemen, a sizable Jewish population was subject to sumptuary laws and social restrictions. Jews regularly came into contact with Islamic courts and Muslim jurists, by choice and by necessity, became embroiled in the most intimate details of their Jewish neighbors lives. Mark S. Wagner draws on autobiographical writings to study the careers of three Jewish intermediaries who used their knowledge of Islamic law to manipulate the sharia for their own benefit and for the good of their community. The result is a fresh perspective on the place of religious minorities in Muslim societies.
