

Neo-Words: A Dictionary of the Newest and Most Unusual Words of Our Times

Neo-words is a compact reference book that collects words and phrases so new they have not yet been recorded in dictionaries: celebuntante (a person who is famous for not really doing anything); ultraconsumer (a person who has a compelling desire to buy the newest and often the most faddish products); and DINK (acronym for double income, no kids). Illustrated by Elwood Smith, Neo-words is designed both as a useful tool for the serious lexicographers and a lighthearted look at some of the most unusual words in the English language.
